AUGUST 17TH - NEW HOUSEBOAT SAFARI

We love safaris, but we think this new luxury, waterbound version sounds even better. The Zambezi Queen launches in November 2009 and will be found graciously cruising along the Chobe river (the Chobe national park is home to 120,000 elephants) between Namibia and Botswana. It is a unique experience, which allows you to get up close to the animals in their natural habitat without the hustle and bustle of a noisy vehicle.

At 45-metres long, it has just 14 suites all of which are elegantly furnished with an African summer theme. Each has their own private balcony- so you can soak up the sun and take in the breath taking views and wildlife. There's also a swimming pool, a stylish bar, and - should you need any further help chilling out - the option of massages and manicures on board.
